Senior Yoga

I am an event planner turned yogi. I discovered yoga 10 years ago while looking for something to balance out my high pressured event planning business and to help heal my body from injuries that occurred from years of Spartan Racing. I completed a 200-hour yoga teacher training with LifePower Yoga, a program created by Jonny Kest. I also have an educational background in Social Work and Special Education. I currently teach yoga at Life Time in Hackensack, NJ as well as private lessons. My goal is to empower students and encourage their physical and spiritual self growth. I will inspire members to improve their health and well-being through the practice of yoga and continually remind them to have fun and breathe. Bring a yoga mat.
